50 Years of Fighting for Reproductive Freedom

FY 2019
Annual Report
1969
NARAL, first known as the National Association for the Repeal of Abortion Laws, is officially established.

1973
The Supreme Court hands down Roe v. Wade, affirming abortion access as a constitutional right.

1976
The discriminatory Hyde Amendment first passes, effectively making abortion a privilege reserved for those who can afford it.

1979
NARAL President Karen Mulhauser testifies in front of Congress against restricting abortion for people eligible for Medicaid.

1985
NARAL launches Abortion Rights, Silent No More, a campaign that centers women’s voices and experiences, increasing political support for the right to access abortion.

1987
NARAL is instrumental in defeating President Ronald Reagan’s nomination of anti-choice Judge Robert Bork to the U.S. Supreme Court.

1989
NARAL co-sponsors the March for Women’s Lives, which draws record-breaking crowds.

1993
President Bill Clinton orders reversal of discriminatory abortion restrictions left by the Reagan and Bush administrations.

1994
NARAL celebrates the passage of the FACE Act, which prohibits the threat or use of force aimed at preventing someone from accessing an abortion clinic.
"We know we stand on the shoulders of giants.

We know that our generation owes an unimaginable debt to the courageous figures of the past."

Our Missions

NARAL Pro-Choice America Foundation
To support and protect, as a fundamental right and value, a woman's freedom to make personal decisions regarding the full range of reproductive choices through education, training, organizing, legal action, and public policy.

NARAL Pro-Choice America
To develop and sustain a constituency that uses the political process to guarantee every woman the right to make personal decisions regarding the full range of reproductive choices, including preventing unintended pregnancy, bearing healthy children, and choosing legal abortion.
We have never faced a more critical moment in the fight for reproductive freedom than the one we find ourselves in now. Even in the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic, the anti-choice movement and its allies in power remain laser-focused on promoting their ideology over and above science in order to advance their agenda of ending legal abortion. Anti-choice lawmakers pushed through an expansion of the discriminatory Hyde Amendment in a COVID-19 relief bill, and state officials hostile to the right to abortion are prioritizing attacks on abortion access during this public health crisis.

It has become increasingly clear that the gloves are off. There’s no low they won’t sink to in order to achieve their ultimate objective of criminalizing abortion and controlling women, even exploiting a global pandemic if it means achieving their dangerous agenda.

Though we continue to face unprecedented threats to our ability to control our own lives, bodies, and futures, we want to take a moment to reflect on the tremendous victories we saw in NARAL’s 50th year. We went on the offense in states such as Nevada and California and joined our allies in places such as Rhode Island and Illinois to advance reproductive freedom. Tens of thousands of people mobilized to lock into law policies protecting and expanding access to abortion care.

Across the country, people of conscience and determination spoke out louder than ever against the dangerous and incendiary disinformation spread by anti-choice ideologues.

And in places such as Georgia, Iowa, and Missouri—where our opponents fought to limit our freedoms and strip away our ability to determine our own destinies—we fought back with fearlessness and ferocity.

Our rights remain on the line, but we were made for this moment. The brave women who founded NARAL paved a path 50 years ago that we have walked ever since. We will continue to fight back—standing steadfast, courageous, unflinching, and unapologetic in the face of attacks on our reproductive freedom.

In this moment of struggle for our cause, there’s something we must remember.

Our fight is not only about freedom, but also about something even more universal: commitment, compassion, empathy, and love.

It’s an essential element of our movement’s strength—that we place ourselves in the hearts of our neighbors; that we insist that people’s stories and experiences be heard, respected, and understood; that we empower people to make their own decisions with those they love.

I truly believe that love, as much as determination, is why we have 2.5 million members today and why we can continue to fight in our new reality.

It’s why, even as Donald Trump stacks the courts with ideologues hostile to Roe v. Wade and emboldens anti-choice lawmakers in state legislatures across the country, we lean on one another, unified by our mission.

What they've failed to fully appreciate is that when we stand together in love and compassion, we pack a hell of a punch. We know that reproductive freedom is for every body. And we will continue to fight for it.

Thank you for being a partner as we build the next 50 years of NARAL’s future, together.

Yours,

Ilyse G. Hogue

Protecting and Expanding Abortion Access

Reality of Roe is a national campaign to educate people about what access to abortion truly looks like in their state and across the country—and what they can do about it. In a year when anti-choice politicians launched attacks on reproductive freedom in unprecedented ways—criminalizing abortion and punishing women—our members led the way, fighting to protect and expand abortion access and demonstrating that we are the majority: the 77% who support the fundamental right to reproductive freedom. Learn more at RealityofRoe.org.

California
California became the first state to ensure medication abortion access on public university campuses with the College Student Right to Access Act. Our members gathered almost 9,000 petition signatures in support of this bill.

Nevada
The Trust Nevada Women Act removes antiquated restrictions that criminalize abortion. NARAL members traveled eight hours each way for four Feminist Road Trips to the capital, Carson City, in support of the bill.

New York
With a new pro-choice majority in place after the 2018 elections, we worked with coalition allies in New York to pass the Reproductive Health Act, decriminalizing abortion and codifying Roe into state law.

Illinois
In Illinois, we supported advocates on the ground in passing the Reproductive Health Act, a law locking in the fundamental rights guaranteed by Roe.

Rhode Island lawmakers passed legislation to enshrine the rights of Roe in state law. NARAL ran radio ads that educated residents and mobilized them to speak up in support of this bill.

Maine passed two laws to make access to abortion more equitable across the state. NARAL members sent messages and made calls to support the in-state coalition.

Washington passed a bill that removes barriers to abortion access, especially for students and transgender communities. NARAL Pro-Choice Washington mobilized members to support this bill.

Across the country, as part of Reality of Roe, our members:
- Took 50,000 online actions
- Made 14,000 calls
- Sent 2,000 postcards
- Hosted 215 events in their communities
Defending Our Rights

In 2019 alone, 31 states introduced, passed, or signed into law bans on abortion—from Ohio to Alabama. When Georgia Gov. Brian Kemp signed an extreme ban on abortion, NARAL Pro-Choice Georgia’s Pro-Choice Peaches were on the front lines organizing against these dangerous restrictions. We also launched the #ReclaimGeorgia campaign to educate people about how elected officials turned their backs on reproductive freedom.

Our Pro-Choice Peaches:

- Made 9,000 calls
- Sent 1,500 emails
- Mailed 100 handwritten notes
to urge their legislators to vote against the abortion ban

We fought back against the abortion ban alongside coalition partners as well as political stalwarts such as Stacey Abrams, leaders in the entertainment industry such as Busy Philipps, and executives from major companies including Netflix.

98 Pro-Choice Peaches turned out to our Feminist Happy Hour to write postcards and sign up to canvass!

NARAL joined Sen. Kirsten Gillibrand (D-NY) at a press conference in Atlanta to fight back against the abortion ban in Georgia.

Iowa Defeats Two Extreme Anti-Choice Measures

NARAL organized 21,000 members who worked tirelessly in Iowa, calling their legislators and visiting them at their offices—ultimately defeating two anti-choice bills that would have harmed women and families.
Mobilizing to #StopTheBans

In the face of an unprecedented wave of abortion bans, NARAL led a historic #StopTheBans National Day of Action, with more than 80 partner organizations participating. Tens of thousands of people turned out on May 21 at over 500 events in all 50 states, Washington, DC, and Puerto Rico to reject attacks on reproductive freedom.

Activists throughout the country, including celebrities, politicians, and influencers, denounced bans on abortion.

“It is way too often that women find themselves fighting for the ability to make personal medical decisions without unnecessary government intrusion. I will always stand with women and will continue to fight against any legislation that takes our state backwards.”

—Georgia State Sen. Nikema Williams

67% of employed adults think their employer should take a stand on reproductive freedom.

Read more about why standing up for reproductive freedom is good for business in our report at NARAL.org/HarrisPoll.

Organizing during #StopTheBans

• Our organizing team reached out to 105,419 activists.
• Over 1,000 new volunteers signed up to participate.
• #StopTheBans was the No. 1 Twitter trend nationwide.
• 82,022 new NARAL members subscribed to our email list.

In June, as part of NARAL’s corporate social responsibility program, 200 CEOs from a wide range of companies came together to say that abortion bans are bad for business in a New York Times full-page ad. See the full ad: www.DontBanEquality.com.

Reproductive Freedom Is a Political Winner

All eyes were on Kentucky and Virginia during the 2019 elections, when champions for reproductive freedom won at the ballot box, demonstrating once again that reproductive freedom is a political winner.

Kentucky

In Kentucky—one of the reddest states in the country—NARAL hit the ground running with a primary endorsement for Andy Beshear because we knew reproductive freedom was crucial to winning this election. We were proud to play a role in Beshear’s election as governor, as he defeated anti-choice incumbent Matt Bevin. Abortion rights were central to this race, and anti-choice organizations outspent reproductive rights groups by a massive margin.

Even in deep-red Kentucky, a poll commissioned by NARAL found that just 17% of voters would only choose a candidate who supports criminalizing abortion and punishing women who obtain one.

- NARAL members made over 6,000 calls.
- NARAL recruited over 130 volunteers to help elect Beshear.
- NARAL ran digital ads letting Kentuckians know about Matt Bevin’s extreme views on abortion.
- NARAL members canvassed for Beshear.

Virginia

We joined forces with NARAL Pro-Choice Virginia to send reproductive freedom champions to Richmond, flipping the General Assembly and securing a Democratic trifecta in the state—paving the way for progress on reproductive freedom. The anti-choice movement test-drove its disinformation tactics for the 2020 election, and NARAL directly rebutted the false attacks and minimized their electoral impact.

A poll commissioned by NARAL found that 79% of Virginia voters support reproductive freedom and think abortion should be legal. In the election, Virginians sent a clear message rejecting anti-choice extremism.

- NARAL made a six-figure investment in ads and voter contact in Virginia.
- We supported NARAL Virginia’s work to make 10,000 calls and knock on 46,000 doors.
- NARAL President Ilyse Hogue and NARAL Virginia Executive Director Tarina Keene joined a canvass for Delegate Hala Ayala in Virginia.
“The anti-choice movement’s agenda is unpopular. That’s why they rely on disinformation to prop it up—and why NARAL’s work is so critical.”

—Ellie Langford
Research Director
NARAL Pro-Choice America
Combating Anti-Choice Lies and Disinformation

77% of Americans support the legal right to abortion. But the radical right constructed a foundation of propaganda that weaponizes anti-choice disinformation in order to exploit latent misogyny and racism and build long-term political power. Fighting for reproductive freedom means reckoning with that threat.

NARAL’s pioneering opposition research team is critical to combating disinformation. Our team of experts tracks and monitors anti-choice actors and organizations, exposing their dangerous lies and their real, ultimate agenda: controlling women.

Learn more in NARAL President Ilyse Hogue’s new book and podcast, “The Lie That Binds”—coming this spring.

We monitor anti-choice extremists and organizations, particularly tracking the way medical disinformation spreads across social media platforms and fuels anti-choice narratives.

Anti-choice activists push for preferential treatment online by disingenuously claiming that fact checks are censorship. Here, they intentionally push medical disinformation to attack abortion access.

We drive the national narrative, leveraging our hard-hitting communications and in-depth message research to combat stigma and disinformation, change the conversation, and find new ways to reach people.

Centering the stories of pregnant people

We educate and equip progressive leaders and elected officials to combat disinformation and avoid traps set by the anti-choice movement.

We train and mobilize people with the information they need to take action against the disinformation campaign being used to dismantle our rights.

Sharing research and resources

We worked with state Sen. Jen Jordan for her testimony on the Georgia Senate floor about the dangers of the Georgia abortion ban.
Empowering Our Members

NARAL is deepening member engagement in all 50 states to leverage the power of the 77% of Americans who support the fundamental right to legal abortion. We are identifying, training, and activating volunteer leaders to mobilize people in their own communities to advocate for reproductive freedom through phone banks, rallies, and events. NARAL has an active network of leaders in states such as New York, California, and Nevada, as well as Washington, DC—with more starting every month.

Our strategy is simple: By training volunteers to lead their own local organizing teams, we’re creating a committed, ever-expanding network of activists while also building a community of volunteers to work together, trade tips, and organize their communities for reproductive freedom.

Member Spotlight: Meagan from New York

“I started volunteering with NARAL because I saw how abortion rights were being chipped away, and I felt the need to get involved and safeguard those rights for future generations. I’ve been inspired by my fellow members and I’ve learned that building strong community connections can help us achieve our goals, no matter how big.”

Our friends and allies joined us to celebrate 50 years of fighting for reproductive freedom.
Friends,

What will it mean to be a NARAL member in the next year?

As we reflect on all that we accomplished in 2019, we also face unprecedented threats to reproductive freedom and an uncertain future. What is our path forward to create an impact in the coming year?

With our rights under assault daily, the challenges ahead are undeniable. Even in the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic, the radical right is consumed with ending legal abortion. And that only makes NARAL’s work protecting and expanding reproductive freedom more critical.

What remains more true than ever is that we are the majority—the 77% of Americans who support the legal right to abortion. And even as we fight an unprecedented health crisis, we are working tirelessly to uphold our vision for reproductive freedom, one shared by the overwhelming majority of Americans.

We’re growing our Reality of Roe program, mobilizing people across the country to protect and expand abortion access in their communities.

In a year filled with attacks on our rights—from the right to access abortion and birth control, to our fundamental right to raise a family the way we see fit—we are growing our strength. We’re making progress in states across the country and holding the line where our freedoms are under threat.

We will continue to beat the drum about our courts, which grow more hostile to our fundamental freedoms by the day as Donald Trump stacks the federal judiciary with anti-choice judges.

We will continue to expose the hypocrisy of those in the anti-choice movement and the dangers of their extremist agenda. They have spent decades methodically chipping away at our rights while keeping their true motives under wraps, but their endgame has become brazenly clear.

They want to criminalize abortion and punish women—and they’ll stop at nothing to make their draconian vision come to fruition. We won’t allow their dangerous deceptions to go unchallenged.

And, finally, yes, an election is coming, and we know what’s at stake. This is a time when we must lift our voices. That’s why NARAL has expanded our online organizing, arming our members with the digital tools to continue the fight for reproductive freedom from their homes or anywhere with an internet connection.

We know battles lie ahead, and we know the very future of Roe v. Wade hangs in the balance.

Reproductive freedom has not been a reality for so many for far too long. Low-income women, women of color, LGBTQ+ people, immigrants, those living in rural areas, and people in other marginalized communities disproportionately suffer when our rights are threatened. And the anti-choice movement is exploiting the global COVID-19 public health emergency to advance its dangerous agenda, prioritizing political gain over the health and well-being of women and families. But we at NARAL are fully committed to ensuring that reproductive freedom is for every body.

The stakes are higher than ever—and we stand ready to rise to the occasion. For more than 50 years, NARAL has been the voice of the 77% of Americans who want to see abortion remain legal. In all this time, our commitment to that mission has never wavered.

And thanks to you, we know it never will.

We’ve got work to do. Let’s get it done!

Low-income women, women of color, LGBTQ+ people, immigrants, those living in rural areas, and people in other marginalized communities disproportionately suffer when our rights are threatened. And the anti-choice movement is exploiting the global COVID-19 public health emergency to advance its dangerous agenda, prioritizing political gain over the health and well-being of women and families. But we at NARAL are fully committed to ensuring that reproductive freedom is for every body.

The stakes are higher than ever—and we stand ready to rise to the occasion. For more than 50 years, NARAL has been the voice of the 77% of Americans who want to see abortion remain legal. In all this time, our commitment to that mission has never wavered.

And thanks to you, we know it never will.

We’ve got work to do. Let’s get it done!
